TEACHERS: DON'T LOSE YOUR CLASS #20

As a teacher, how to be a respected colleague and a good friend?

Being a respected colleague and a good friend as a teacher is essential for building positive relationships in your school community. Here are some tips on how to achieve both:

- Be professional: Maintain a high level of professionalism in your interactions with colleagues. Treat everyone with respect, courtesy, and kindness.
- Collaborate effectively: Actively participate in collaborative efforts with your colleagues. Share your ideas, expertise, and resources to support each other's teaching and professional growth.
- Be a team player: Show a willingness to work as part of a team. Support your colleagues in achieving common goals and be reliable in group projects or initiatives.
- Communicate openly: Foster open and honest communication with your colleagues. Listen actively to their concerns and ideas and provide constructive feedback when necessary.
- Share knowledge: Share your knowledge and best practices. If you discover effective teaching strategies, resources, or solutions to common challenges, don't hesitate to pass them on to your colleagues.
- Be inclusive: Promote inclusivity and diversity within your school community. Respect and appreciate the differences among your colleagues and be an advocate for inclusivity in your teaching.
- Show empathy: Demonstrate empathy and understanding. Be supportive when colleagues are facing personal or professional challenges.
- Offer help: Offer assistance when your colleagues need it. Whether it's helping with lesson planning, covering a class in an emergency, or providing emotional support, be there for your colleagues.
- Be a good listener: Be a good listener when colleagues need someone to talk to. Sometimes, just lending a sympathetic ear can make a significant difference.
- Celebrate successes: Celebrate the achievements and milestones of your colleagues. Recognize their hard work and contributions to the school community.
- Resolve conflicts constructively: If conflicts arise, address them in a constructive and professional manner. Focus on finding solutions rather than placing blame.
- Respect boundaries: Respect the personal boundaries of your colleagues. Not everyone may be comfortable mixing their professional and personal lives, so be mindful of this.
- Be trustworthy: Build trust by keeping confidences and being reliable. Colleagues should feel confident that they can trust you with sensitive information.
- Attend school events: Participate in school events, such as staff meetings, professional development sessions, and social gatherings. This demonstrates your commitment to the school community.
- Stay positive: Maintain a positive attitude even during challenging times. Your optimism can be contagious and uplifting for your colleagues.
- Give and receive constructive feedback: Be open to receiving feedback from colleagues about your teaching and professional practices, and offer feedback in a constructive and supportive manner.

Remember that being a respected colleague and a good friend in the school community is an ongoing process. It involves building and maintaining positive relationships, being a team player, and fostering a sense of unity and collaboration among your colleagues. By following these principles, you can contribute to a healthy and supportive school environment.

WORKSHOP: BARRIERS TO LEARNING IN THE CLASSROOM

BARRIERS TO LEARNING IN THE CLASSROOM

My name is Philippa Fabbri, and I'm an education specialist/consultant working in the academic space for over 30 years. My area of expertise is finding a child's true potential and then helping them to overcome any barriers that they might have so that they can make progress and flourish.

I've created a practical workshop for teachers discussing the most common barriers to learning in the classroom, what to look out for and how to screen and assess so that a correct referral can then be made by the school based support team or teachers.

Does your school have a SCHOOL BASED SUPPORT TEAM (SBST). If not, we can also set that up for you. Maybe you have one, but it's not working effectively, or perhaps you'd like to create one but you're not sure where to start. We consult, understand your school community and establish some champion teachers to lead this process with us.

The LEARNING BARRIERS workshop works well with teachers in a discussion group of up to 20 and we can lead a discussion looking at and understanding the different learning barriers and how they present in the class. This format means that it's interactive and allows for questions and further dialogue. Teachers also enjoy being given the opportunity to put forward some case studies for us to chat about and problem-solve together.

We also know that "learning to read" and "reading to learn and understand" doesn't always come easily for many students. Why is that? We can discuss reading barriers and issues such as dyslexia and how to screen for it. Around 5% of students will have dyslexia.

The ASSESSMENT FILE, which is an additional resource that can be ordered and purchased when you book your training workshop, and has all the screenings and assessments that teachers need.

Is this workshop something that your school might be interested in for the 4th term or during 2024?

To make contact with me, please complete the SCHOOL ENQUIRY FORM here and I'll get back to you.
