Let Them

Managing the Unmanageable: <https://www.ecexams.co.za/CM.htm>

In the fast-paced and emotionally demanding world of teaching, many educators carry the emotional weight of every learner's behaviour, every colleague's opinion, and every parent's expectation. But what if there was a simple mindset shift that could ease this pressure, build emotional resilience, and actually make teachers more effective and fulfilled? This is where Mel Robbins' Let Them Theory offers a fresh and powerful perspective.

What is the 'Let Them Theory'?

Popularised by motivational speaker and author Mel Robbins, the Let Them Theory is rooted in the idea of emotional detachment from things you cannot control. At its core, it means:

“If someone wants to behave a certain way... let them. Focus instead on what you can control - your reaction, your energy, and your values.”

Rather than getting emotionally entangled in others' actions, the theory encourages people to “let them” do what they’re doing, and choose peace over people-pleasing, control, or frustration. This is not about giving up responsibility or care - it’s about conserving energy for what truly matters.

How Does This Apply to Teachers?

Teaching in South Africa is both inspiring and incredibly challenging. With overcrowded classrooms, varied learner needs, and social pressures, it’s easy for teachers to feel overwhelmed. The Let Them Theory can be a transformative mindset for teachers who want to succeed without burning out.

1. Let Learners Take Responsibility

Some learners won’t complete homework, follow instructions, or show interest despite your best efforts. Instead of personalising their behaviour, let them. This doesn’t mean ignoring it - but rather detaching emotionally from their decision and calmly applying the appropriate consequence or support.

☒ What to do instead: Set clear expectations and boundaries, provide support, and let learners choose their actions within that structure. Their choices are not a reflection of your worth or effort.

2. Let Colleagues Be Who They Are

Not all staff members will share your work ethic, vision, or teaching style. Trying to change or control them can cause frustration. Let them be who they are, and focus your energy on your own growth and impact.

☒ What to do instead: Lead by example, collaborate where possible, and maintain professionalism without taking things personally.

3. Let Parents Think What They Want

Parents may not always understand your methods or decisions. Some may even criticise you unfairly. Rather than entering into conflict or people-pleasing, let them have their opinions, while you stay grounded in your professional judgment.

☑ What to do instead: Communicate clearly and respectfully, listen with empathy, and stand firm in your educational decisions.

4. Let Go of the Need to Be Perfect

Many teachers feel pressure to be the perfect role model, lesson planner, mentor, and administrator. This pressure leads to burnout. The Let Them Theory invites you to let yourself be human.

☑ What to do instead: Accept that not every lesson will go perfectly. Reflect, learn, and move forward.

Becoming a Successful Teacher with the ‘Let Them’ Mindset

Great teachers are not just experts in content - they are emotionally intelligent, calm under pressure, and focused on what truly matters: learner growth.

By applying the Let Them Theory, teachers:

- Reduce stress and avoid unnecessary emotional drama.
- Model emotional maturity and resilience for learners.
- Build a calm and consistent classroom environment.
- Focus their time and energy on what they can influence.
- Maintain healthier work-life balance.

Final Thoughts

The Let Them Theory doesn't mean indifference - it means wisdom. It's a way for teachers to stay centred in their purpose, without being drained by every challenge around them. By letting others be who they are, and focusing on your own path, you gain the clarity, energy, and strength needed to thrive.

So the next time a learner misbehaves, a colleague complains, or someone doubts your abilities, take a deep breath - and let them. Then carry on being the inspiring teacher you were called to be.

INNOVATE & INSPIRE 2025

FORGING NEW PATHS IN EDUCATION

COME AND JOIN US!

After the incredible success of the 2024 Innovate & Inspire Conference—where over 125 teachers from 30 schools came together for a powerful day of learning, collaboration, and inspiration—we're excited to invite you to the 2025 edition, themed "Forging New Paths in Education." This year's event promises even more hands-on workshops, engaging discussions, and practical strategies you can take straight back to your classroom. Throughout the term, we'll be introducing the amazing companies and presenters who will be joining us—but don't wait! Tickets are limited, so secure your spot early and be part of shaping the future of education in South Africa.

FOCUS OF THE EVENT

The focus of the event is on teachers sharing their valuable teaching experiences and ideas, providing a platform for open discussions, networking, and collaboration. We believe that your school's presence at the conference will be an excellent opportunity to showcase the exceptional teaching practices that have made your school stand out as a beacon of academic excellence in our region.

HOSTED BY HUDSON PARK PRIMARY

Hudson Park Primary School is a school in East London which has rich traditions, and yet is future-focused with a holistic approach to education. At Hudson, all children are given the opportunity to participate in all spheres of their education; sport, academic, cultural and pastoral, and those who wish to focus their talents in a particular area are nurtured.

We believe education at Hudson Park Primary encourages respect, loyalty, honesty, discipline, hard work and pride. We stand for sound, common values.

MEET THE GUEST SPEAKER FOR 2025

Dr. Karen Ann Walstra is an educational consultant focused on integrating digital tools, problem-solving, and critical thinking into education. She has extensive experience as a classroom teacher (Grade R -11), academic director, and developer of outreach programmes.

Dr. Walstra worked for Google on education initiatives in Sub-Saharan Africa and developed an Online Safety Curriculum Guide for South African schools.

She has also lectured at several universities and is an expert in Educational Technology and Design and Technology. She is a member of the South African AI Association. She holds a PhD in Computer-integrated Education, researching the influence of Virtual Reality on primary school teaching.
